HGC Wins Contract to Offer International Bandwidth plus Internet Upstream Services to Vietnam Datacommunication Company

Hong Kong and Vietnam, 17 May 2007 – Hutchison Global Communications Limited (“HGC”), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hutchison Telecommunications International Limited (SEHK: 2332, NYSE: HTX), and Vietnam Datacommunication Company (“VDC”) jointly announced that they had signed a contract about HGC’s provision of 622Mbps International Bandwidth plus Internet upstream services to VDC.

With HGC and VDC signed the contract in a ceremony on 17 May 2007 in Hanoi, Vietnam, HGC will offer 622Mbps submarine cable capacity riding on Sea-Me-We 3 cable to extend VDC’s connectivity to Hong Kong and at the same time serve as VDC’s international IP transit upstream providers.

“We are very proud to win a contract from VDC to render highly stable and reliable transmission with high quality of Internet service in Vietnam,” said Mr Andrew Kwok, Vice President – International Business of HGC. “This important contract win reflects our expertise and experience as one of the leading IP transit providers in Asia.”

Mr Hoang Minh Cuong, Vice President of VDC, said: “As the ISP arm of Vietnam Post and Telecommunications Corporation, Vietnam’s largest provider of communications services and one of Asia’s leading players in Information and Communications Technologies, we are dedicated to extending our direct Internet connections. Leveraging HGC’s world class carrier-grade network infrastructure and international network covering Asia, the United States and Europe, we will be well positioned to enjoy exceptionally fast Internet access services and get connected with more countries and cities worldwide in the future.”

Other than various fibre connections with Mainland China, HGC’s widespread footprint in Asia stretches to Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan as well as Vietnam, Thailand and Cambodia. Its diversified fibre connection and PoPs also extend to the United States and Europe via London.
